

Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron
Learn to Sail 2019

Application posted: November 20th, 2019

Deadline: February 15th, 2019

The Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron is accepting applications for sailing instructor positions for the 2019 summer season. The RNSYS Sail Training Program strives to provide safe, challenging and educational sailing instruction while promoting seamanship, sportsmanship, and a lifelong interest in sailing to young people in our community. We offer a leading program with up-to-date equipment, ranging from elementary sailing to competitive racing at the local, national and international levels. Our Learn to Sail team is composed of instructors ranging from various sailing backgrounds, bringing many skills to our sailing school and providing a fun, energetic and welcoming atmosphere. We are looking for instructors that are enthusiastic about coaching, hold a love for sailing and are continuously trying to better their own sailing and instructing skills.

Positions: The RNSYS will be accepting applications for the positions of Wetfeet, Opti 1, Opti 2, Opti 3, 420 and Laser instructors.

Reports to: Coordinator of Sail Training

Period: Selected sailing programs begin on June 24th, all programs end August 23rd. Preparations for the summer will begin early June.

Hours: 8:30am-4:30pm (please note that these times may vary depending on your position and the week).

Pay: Vary with certification and experience.

Responsibilities: RNSYS instructors are mainly responsible for the instruction, safety and management of sailors in the level of their instruction. In addition, RNSYS instructors are responsible for establishing a positive learning environment, being prepared and ensuring the safety of all RNSYS sailors.

Requirements: Certified Sail Canada instructor, with VHF operators card.

Application process: Please send a cover letter along with a resume and references to sailnow@rnsys.com by February 15th, 2019. Interviews will take place shortly after. Please note that only applicants chosen for interviews will be contacted.